RAMZAN

The Islamic month of Ramzan is just around the corner. Apart from the demonstration of religious devotion, this month also brings in a lot of cultural festivities with colorful Iftar parties that offer rich Pakistani food as well as social meet-ups at the evenings. We hope you make best of this great holy month.

It is important that a healthy yet cautious diet regime should be followed and fatty eatables that offer potential health risks be avoided. In addition, the weather turns as hot as it can so preventive measures need to be adopted to avoid scorching heat that can lead to over exertion and dehydration during fasting hours. Above all, Ramzan is a month of solidarity, patience and sacrifice. These great traditions simply add to the beauty of this month if followed in letter and spirit.
